

Sexual Addiction Among Women Seeking “Well-Endowed” Male Partners: Results of a Survey

By
Dr. Anthony G. Payne

We are by nature “hard wired” to seek out novelty as well as activities, practices and indulgences and that give us pleasure. Sometimes the two go hand-in-hand, while at others times they operate separately. Whether operating separately or in concert they appear to ring all kinds of bells in the brain’s reward centers. This tends to reinforce our taking or doing whatever it is that brought this about.

The pursuit of novelty or pleasure or both takes on many faces, some beneficial and others that may be beneficial initially but which exact a toll in the short or long term. For example, learning, exploration and discovery using a telescope, microscope or an archeologist’s pick is satisfying at many levels and brings internal and “real world” rewards (recognition, etc.) that encourage a ‘repeat performance’. For some, a glass of wine with meals relaxes and pays off in terms of reducing certain heart disease risk factors. So long as this pursuit does not edge out or totally eclipse important considerations such as spousal needs, family, et cetera, it has merit. If it becomes the major or sole focus of one’s attention and energies, then it can have negative consequences.

This basic principle applies to such “personal indulgence” pursuits as wagering for gain (gambling), drinking, and sexual gratification as well. If the positives outweigh the negatives for self and all concerned, the law is not broken, and no one is harmed or forced to compromise their own standards of personal integrity or morality, then all is well at least at a very fundamental level. But when these pleasurable indulgences visit harm or violation on self or others, directly or collaterally, then trouble is in the offing.

Of course, pleasure-evoking things as gambling and booze can become addictive. Statistics abound on the nature and scope of alcoholism and gambling addiction. But what about sexual addiction? How prevalent is it?

According to Dr. Eli Coleman, director of the human sexuality program at University of Minnesota Medical School in Minneapolis, approximately 3% to 5% of U.S. adults are sexually addicted. He is quick to point out that these people are not pedophiles or otherwise deviant in their sexual practices, but (rather) are “straight or gay people with intense, recurrent sexual fantasies who are uncontrollably driven to compulsive sexual acts that cause them trouble.” Coleman adds that “true sex addiction can’t be chalked up to drug or alcohol abuse or any medical condition” http://www.usatoday.com/news/health/2003-08-10-addiction-usat_x.htm

The U.S. Census Bureau total population estimate for 2003 is 290,809,777 people. 74% are folks over age 18. If we take the lower estimate given by Dr. Coleman (3%), this translates to about 6.5 million people who are sexually addicted!

The Hallmarks of Sexual Addiction

According to sexual addiction expert Dr. Patrick Carnes, there are ten possible warning signs that are manifest in persons for whom sex is “the tail wagging the dog”:

1. Feeling that your behavior is out of control.
2. Being aware that there may be severe consequences if you continue.
3. Feeling unable to stop your behavior, despite knowing the consequences.
4. Persistently pursuing destructive and/or high-risk activities.
5. Wanting to stop or control what you're doing and taking active steps to limit your activities.
6. Using sexual fantasies as a way of coping with difficult feelings or situations.
7. Needing more and more sexual activity in order to experience the same high.
8. Suffering from intense mood swings around sexual activity.
9. Spending an increasing amount of time planning, engaging in or regretting and recovering from sexual activities.
10. Neglecting important social, occupational or recreational activities in favor of sexual behavior.

“Sexual addiction has many different forms: compulsive masturbation, sex with prostitutes, anonymous sex with multiple partners, multiple affairs outside a committed relationship, habitual exhibitionism, habitual voyeurism, inappropriate sexual touching, repeated sexual abuse of children, and episodes of rape (Book, 1997). Of all forms of sexual addiction, none is more harmful to both the addict and the victim than childhood sexual abuse.

The beginnings of sexual addiction are usually rooted up in adolescence or childhood. It is found that 60% of sexual addicts were abused by someone in their childhood (Book, 1997,pp 52). The child may have grown up in a hostile, chaotic or neglectful home, or the family may have been very normal but the child grows up emotionally starved for love because affection is rarely expressed. Gradually sex becomes a replacement act to turn to in times of any kind of need, from escaping boredom, to feeling anxious, to being able to sleep at night. The child may repeatedly turn to masturbation for escape....“

Dr. Carnes developed this specific test to gauge sexual addiction in women called the “Woman’s Sexual Addiction Screening Test” (W-SAST):

1. Were you sexually abused as a child or adolescent?
2. Do you regularly purchase romance novels or sexually explicit magazines?
3. Have you stayed in romantic relationships after they become emotionally or physically abusive?
4. Do you often find yourself preoccupied with sexual thoughts or romantic daydreams?
5. Do you feel that your sexual behavior is not normal?
6. Does your spouse or significant other(s) ever worry or complain about your sexual behavior?
7. Do you have trouble stopping your sexual behavior when you know it is inappropriate?
8. Do you ever feel bad about your sexual behavior?
9. Has your sexual behavior ever created problems for you and your family?
10. Have you ever sought help for sexual behavior you did not like?
11. Have you ever worried about people finding out about your sexual activities?
12. Has anyone been hurt emotionally because of your sexual behavior?
13. Have you ever participated in sexual activity in exchange for money or gifts?
14. Do you have times when you act out sexually followed by periods of celibacy (no sex at all)?
15. Have you made efforts to quit a type of sexual activity and failed?
16. Do you hide some of your sexual behavior from others?
17. Do you find yourself having multiple romantic relationships at the same time?
18. Have you ever felt degraded by your sexual behavior?
19. Has sex or romantic fantasies been a way for you to escape your problems?
20. When you have sex, do you feel depressed afterwards?
21. Do you regularly engage in sadomasochistic behavior?
22. Has your sexual activity interfered with your family life?
23. Have you been sexual with minors?
24. Do you feel controlled by your sexual desire or fantasies of romance?
25. Do you ever think your sexual desire is stronger than you are?

According to Dr. Carnes and associate Sharon O’Hara, W-SAST is “designed to assist in the assessment of sexually compulsive behavior. This test is a screening instrument meant to be used in the context of a therapeutic interview. By itself, the W-SAST does not provide a diagnosis.” The scoring is as follows:

- 3 – 4 "yes" responses may indicate an area of concern and should be openly discussed with a friend or family member.
- 5 - 7 positive answers suggests a need for further assessment of the problem behavior, including the consideration of attending a 12-Step support program such as Sex & Love Addicts Anonymous.

- More than 7 "yes" responses indicate a serious struggle with addictive sexual issues with potentially self- abusive and/or dangerous consequences. Should seriously consider professional treatment.

Dr. Carnes also developed a screening test for sexual addiction in men that can be accessed by clicking this link: <http://www.sexualrecovery.com/resources/selftests/gast.php>

Narrowing the Focus

Dr. Carnes' various online tests to screen for sexual addiction first appeared during 1997 (AOL, Prodigy and Compuserve came online around 1995). During 1998 I became an AOL Community Leader (AltMed Board) and in this capacity spent a great deal of time researching and writing articles for posting on various popular medical, psychological and sexual issues. During the process of searching the web for material germane to an article I was writing on penile augmentation (surgical and non-surgical methods), I noticed many message board posts made by women seeking "well endowed" male partners. The content of some of these suggested that many were sex addicts. But were they really? And if so, was their addiction spurred on by pleasurable experiences with "hung men" or the anticipation of pleasure this might bring – or both? One way to find out, I reasoned, was to conduct a survey. While what I had in mind was not necessarily scientifically rigorous, I might at least garner some input and data that would indicate whether there was something afoot that could be more methodically validated down the line.

In designing a survey form for "Women who prefer well-endowed men", I incorporated all the questions found on the W-SAST. After I was satisfied that it was comprehensive and telling enough, I set up a special website on AOL featuring the survey and then began advertising it on message boards and such where women were posting information, questions, and such concerning sexuality and relationship issues (The survey form in its entirety can be found at the end of this article).

Over the course of a one-year period (01/1998-01/1999) I received completed forms from 42 women. Most were young to middle-aged (87%), heterosexual (85%), had a high school education or better, were single or otherwise unattached (71%), were politically conservative to moderate, and middle class (81%). Only 10% used tobacco and while 67% (28 women) reported that they consumed alcoholic beverages, only 2 women described their drinking as "heavy" (7%). And only one woman reported using an illicit drug (Marijuana).

The vast majority defined a "well-endowed man" as possessing a penis 8" long or longer and "thick" (29% favored a penile circumference or girth of 5-6 inches; 52% 6-7 inches; and 19% 7 plus inches). Girth, in fact, was frequently mentioned as being a very important characteristic. This dovetails with the findings of a survey study involving the penis size preferences of female college published in BMC Women's Health during 2001 <http://www.biomedcentral.com/1472-6874/1/1>.

During January 1999 I carried out an analysis of the survey forms that revealed that 28 of the women (67%) had W-SAST scores indicating possible sexual addiction [And of this group, 6 (14%) indicated they had been sexually abused as children or teenagers. However, these 6 plus 22 others (28 = 67%) indicated they had endured some manner of emotional abuse]. Sixteen had had prior experience with a well-endowed male partner, and twelve had not. Of the fourteen women who did not score as sexually addicted, ten had had relations with a well-endowed man and four had not.

During the course of writing up my survey findings (February 1999), I was offered a unique opportunity to teach at a university outside Tokyo, Japan that required leaving the US fairly quickly. Faced with a great deal of packing and organizing, I sat the survey project aside and made plans to resume work on it at my earliest opportunity. Earliest, in this case wound up being more than four years down the road.

Fast Forward – 2004

During February 2003 I returned to the USA, though it would be another year before the survey project was at long last dug out of mothballs and revived. One of the things that sent me shifting through boxes to retrieve the survey-related documentation had to do with spam: specifically, the literal flood of unsolicited e-mails containing subject line exhortations to “go big”, “enlarge your penis” and such. It appeared that being well endowed was an increasingly hot issue. But what was behind this?

Quite obviously male insecurities over penis size were being exploited by a whole host of people looking to capitalize on this. But I had to wonder: Was male psychology alone informing this flurry of commercial come-ons, or were there actually lots of women “out there” posting ads or messages soliciting dates or other kinds of relationships with well-endowed men? A systematic search using several of the best search engines turned up a multitude of ads and postings by women who were on a quest to find a well-hung man or men. No doubt many, many men were reading these and finding themselves both titillated and intimidated by their content!

The content of many of these ads and postings gleamed from the Internet seem to suggest that a substantial number of women desiring well-endowed male partners were either sexually addicted or addiction-prone. Perhaps if I could locate a large enough cache of detailed ads from women who were looking for well-hung men, these might furnish enough information to either buttress or refute what was revealed in the 1998-9 survey. It didn't take long to find what was needed: The Big Date website

During August 2004 I paid a very modest one-time fee to gain temporary access to Big Date, reputedly the only Internet introductions service that caters to people looking specifically to connect with well-endowed partners. What specifically attracted me to this website was the fact its ad database section for “str8 women” (heterosexual) looking for well-endowed “str-8 men” contains over 1000 ads. This is what I culled from BD (Used with permission):

The majority of ads posted were made by white (68%), young to middle aged women (76 % are between age 30 and 49). More than half (57%) are married or otherwise attached. Most (77%) are seeking men with penises that range from 8”-10” in length, while 19% are looking for men with 10+” organs. In terms of girth preferences, 85% state that they prefer prospective partner(s) who are “thick” while 16% are looking for men who are “extra thick”. Generally speaking “thick” is employed most often to describe penile circumferences that range from six to seven inches or so. Anything about 8” looks to qualify as “extra thick” judging from what can be deduced from the ad text.

Since none of the women advertising on BD were tested by me using either my original survey form or the W-SAST alone, there is no way to ascertain how prevalent sexual addiction is among this population. Even so, the thrust of the majority of ads speaks volumes concerning the mindset of what appears to be a large segment of these women (Samples follow immediately below).

Women who have been with a well-endowed man or men

Looking for someone to help me scratch an itch. I am very oral and vocal, but not very verbal. But I love to be talked to while being f*d hard by a big ck. SHF, 34

Only had one previous experience with a REALLY big ck. Difficult to find again - seems there aren't that many men with big ones. Please contact me if you do have a large one so we can exchange photos and fantasies and possibly meet if everything seems right. WaF, 30

I can't begin to describe the pleasure a big dk gives me and I miss it. I am also interested in group sex so if you are a couple M/F or 2 males that is ok I would like to hear from you too if your packing a big one. I am of mixed race but look Hispanic or Puerto Rican. SOF, 32

I am a very cute and curvaceous blonde. I enjoy giving oral to well hung men and love the feel of a big ck inside me. Men must be at least 9 inches long and thick. Race doesn't really matter. I am looking for a man at least 8 inches in length but who is also very well endowed in terms of girth. I would prefer a guy who is at least 6 inches around as I find extra thickness the only way I can experience orgasm during intercourse. Guys who have length plus thickness or who are extremely thick please reply. Your age, race and marital status is of no concern as I am only looking to a casual/semi-regular thing at present. Of course if sparks fly then who knows. SWF, 36

I am a single woman who absolutely loves the feel of a well-endowed man. I have a great sense of humor and a tremendous sex drive. If interested, email me. SWF, 41

Genuine "size queen". Petite, brunette, good looking 27yo professionally employed single white female, looking for a genuine "donkey" sized male with a view to establishing a relationship. Have experienced "big" men before -- thickness and length are thus very important to me. I'm also a lover of big b*lls, and what they produce. So if you're genuine, down to earth, and hung like a donkey, please don't be shy. SWF, 27

Women whose status with regard to experience with a well hung man or men is difficult to determine with certainty

I'm looking to meet guys hung 9" or better and THICK! I live in Nevada and enjoy meeting men here on vacation, for conventions, etc. SWF, 45

I am looking to experience the wild side of sex. I especially want to know what it is like to feel the stretch. Any good guys who either want to fulfill my fantasy or let me fulfill theirs, please contact me. I have plenty of fantasies to share. MWF, 42

I don't do one-night stands, looking forward to getting together with you very soon. SBF, 46

I am searching for a man that has the right equipment to satisfy a lady with a voracious sexual appetite. I cannot seem to find someone large enough to really satisfy me. Are you that man? SWF, 40

Hello, I am tired of the "little" men that I have slept with in the past! I am seeking a white man 30-50 who is extremely well hung (10+) and thick. I need to feel what it is like to feel full. I am for real and am not playing games. Serious inquiries only. Picture proof. Your

Women who have not experienced a well-hung man or men

I am a fit black woman living in London. My greatest fantasy is to have a hung man fill me up, slowly and pain free: to give me the ultimate orgasm, as I have never experienced it. So if you are willing to help me out, feel free to email me. SBF, 36

Looking for hung men to satisfy a need I have. Have never been with a well-hung guy. Looking for 9+ inches. Inexperienced but very horny! SWF, 42

Sexy redhead looking for hung man/men or couples with a hung man. Must be well endowed, as I have had a lot of experience with smaller men and am not interested in a "repeat". Hope to hear from you soon. SWF, 26

I am a black married woman looking to experience a really well hung man. My husband of one year is of average size, and I have always been curious about big dks. It is my fantasy to have sex with a well hung man and then tell my husband all about it. He might even want to join in! MBF, 27

I am looking for well-endowed men to fill me up and thus satisfy my fantasy. I have been dreaming of a man with a 9+ in. ck just putting the hammer down on me to the point whereby I can hardly move afterwards. If you think you're that guy then we definitely have to see if you can perform like the men in my dreams -- hopefully even better. SWF, 23

I am a married Indian lady looking to make my fantasy come true, insofar as I would like to be fully penetrated by either a white or black male with a very large penis. Is there a nice and genuine male like this out there? MAF, 42

I am very physically fit and have been told that I am quite attractive. I have a very high sex drive and nurse a fantasy of being with a huge man! I have never had a huge man before, but I have seen pictures and it drives me wild. I think there is nothing more erotic or powerful looking than a very hung man. If you are 9"+ and very thick, please send a photo and I will send you pictures of myself. Very clean, D&D free and discretion is required. SWF, 43

I am a single female looking for a well-endowed guy. I have never had a large guy before and would like to try you. SWF, 32

I would like to experience being with a man who is “blessed” down there. I have never been with anyone over 5 to 6 inches long. After having had 2 children I have come to realize that size does matter! I am looking for an attractive, clean man, down to earth and easy going. Someone who understands this situation! I am not into pain or anything funky. I am a professional, sincere, down to earth woman, attractive with a cute smile to boot. I am caring, artistic and passionate. HF, 39

I am a petite mature woman who has always wanted a well-hung man to pleasure me the way I know only a man of large dimensions could. I have been married for a long time to a man who is, if anything, barely average and I long for complete fulfillment; to be completely full. Not looking for long-term relationship or any type of strings, only a friend and long time lover. MWF, 46

Give me the thrill of a lifetime! I am a 47 year old MWF who feels its time to experience a big ck. I'm a little on the heavy side with nice size breasts for you to play with, and am looking for a man with no facial hair, a non smoker who packs 8 inches or better. He must enjoy kissing and taking his time with me so I can enjoy the thrill of taking so much ck. If you do not measure up, please do not reply. MWF, 48

Ok, I am here because I want one thing! I am a MWF, 30, attractive, brunette, great body, somewhat shy and inexperienced with sex. I want to know if bigger is really better, but I don't know how/where to find the right guy. I'm not looking for kinky sex, just oral and normal sex. MWF, 31

Hi, I am have been married over 30 years and have three grown children. My sex drive has gotten stronger and my husband cannot satisfy me anymore. I am looking for a young (18 & up) well hung black man to satisfy my “dark craving.” Uncut would certainly be a tremendous turn on for me. MWF, 54

I have never had a really huge man before and crave it so much! I adore huge dks, hoping someone out there fits the bill. I am very clean and want the same from you. I love to experiment and always give lots of attention to my partner including oral giving and receiving. Love men of other races. Hope to hear from you soon. SBF, 41

Summing it up

Of the forty-two women who completed survey forms during 1998-9, two-thirds scored high enough on the (embedded) W-SAST to qualify as sexually addicted. 57% of these women reported having had prior sexual experience with a well-endowed man, while 43% stated they had not. Drug use and alcohol abuse is not a significant player in the lives of women in either group (sexually addicted, non-addicted).

In my 2004 review of all the BD ads posted by “str8” (heterosexual) women looking for well hung men, most were adamant that their prospective partners be drug and disease free, and either employ safe sex measures (condoms) or provide proof of disease-free status (This parallels in many respects the stance of the women who participated in the 1998-9 survey). And while no determination could be made concerning the percentage of these women who are sexually addicted, at least half or more used language that suggests the presence of a kind and degree of ‘obsession’ that is characteristic of sexually addicted or addiction-prone people.

Human sexual behavior is intimately tied to rewards – as in pleasures realized or anticipated. When the pursuit of sexual pleasure interferes with one’s job, family, sense of contentment or such, addiction or addiction-prone tendencies is indicated. Sixty-six percent (66%) of those who took part in the 1998-9 “Women Who Prefer Well-Endowed Men” survey qualified as being sexually addicted according to their scores on the W-SAST portion of the survey form. If this level of addiction proves to be true of women who utilize dating and relationship forums for the express purpose of connecting with well-endowed men, justification would exist for marshalling greater resources to help make these women cognizant of the emotional, sexual and mental health issues involved and of their need to avail themselves of testing and (if indicated) counseling.

Returning now to the estimate mentioned early on in this article that 3-5% of American adults are sexually addicted: If the lower number --3% -- is accurate this translates to 6.5 million people. If one-quarter to one-half of these is women we are talking 1.23 to 3.25 million mothers, daughters, sisters, grandmothers, aunts and so forth. That we need to reach out to them is almost a given. And if what my 1998-9 survey indicates is even partially true, a good place to begin may be services, message boards, and such where women go in search of a “big date.”

Sexual selection and penis size in men Sexual selection and genital evolution

<http://www.serpentfd.org/historyevolutionchapter3.html>

... female choice in human evolution is evidenced by the size of the male penis... penis size and testicle size are impacted by female choice in other species. There is a close correlation between testicle size and penis size and promiscuous social structure as seen in chimpanzees where males with larger testicles and penises produce and distribute larger quantities of sperm creating an advantage over the other males (Margulis & Sagan, 1991), If you are a male living in a hierarchically organized social system, a gorilla harem for example, then copious amount of sperm production or a long penis does not increase your chances of producing progeny. Your ability to prevent other males from sexual contact with females, by force or intimidation, positively influences your chances of reproductive success. Gorillas retain a diminutive penis and testicle size..."

“As any rational person would have expected, the largest organisms ever to exist on earth would also have the largest endowments. Among land animals, African bull elephants lead the pack with their 5 to 6 ft. extremities. Whale penises, called dorks (yes, when called a dork in grade school you were actually being compared to a whale schlong), are the largest in the world, the blue whale being the champ with phalli approximately 10 ft. long and 1 ft. in diameter. Its smaller cousins, notably the appropriately named humpback and sperm whale, have penises that measure 9 feet or so. Makes you wonder if this is what Melville had in mind when he chose the title Moby Dick...”

In nature, the top goal of any mammal is survival and procreation. And the female mammal is not only responsible for being the vehicle by which the pregnancy and birth takes place but she is also responsible for the selection of the male partner that will impregnate her.

The three biggest factors in this determination are: 1) Survival skills (strength, the ability to win over the competition, etc.), 2) testicle size and 3) penis size.

Penis Size:

The closer the penis opening is to the cervix (the doorway to the "child-carrying" uterus), the greater the chances that a sperm will survive the harsh female defense systems and make it to the waiting egg. In the animal world, a larger penis size is seen as better in the female mammal's male selection process since it can penetrate deep into the vagina, increasing the likelihood of a pregnancy.

So the strongest male with the biggest penis and the biggest balls was picked by the female mammal to ensure survival and procreation. And so over time, the male mammals in a particular region naturally began having bigger and bigger penis sizes. This is over thousands of years where only the well-endowed males were picked and allowed to pass on their "well-endowed" genetic code.

Penis size throughout human evolutionary history seemed to take on the same role as larger antlers in deer or larger horns has in bulls. Females just saw the stronger men with big penis sizes as more "equipped" to father and protect a family. But this is always in relationship to the average vagina size of a particular region. In any particular region, you'll find that the penis size and vagina size of the indigenous people begin to equal.

Females & Sexual addiction: Myths & Dignoses

Still, the reality is that there are those who may reject a man for his smaller penis size, just as there are those who might reject a woman who has a smaller breast size or too many freckles. Unfortunately, many men may respond to that kind of rejection by feeling bad about themselves or that there's something wrong with them rather than feeling that they're just not what the other person was looking for. Michael, 22, a music major says, "I think some men do get rejected because of penis size, but if that's the only thing someone is interested in, and they would reject me for that one thing, then what can I say. They are lots of guys out there with big penises. I'm just not the one for you."

In a sexual relationship, the way we relate to our bodies is intimately linked to our feelings about giving and receiving pleasure. If a man is unsatisfied with the way his penis looks, he should ask himself a few questions: What standards am I using to compare myself? If I have standards, are they realistic (and does anybody care about my standards besides me)? Is the size of my penis all there is to my sexuality? Ultimately, if a man can accept himself just as it is, he won't have to worry if his penis isn't large, gigantic or too big to fit through the doorway.
